

National Union Fire Insurance Company of Vermont (Protected Cell Captive)

National Union Fire Insurance Company of Vermont (NUFIC of Vermont) is a sponsored captive insurance company owned by AIG and domiciled in Vermont. It offers a protected cell captive solution for insureds seeking an alternative risk retention strategy without the costs or capital and complexity of a wholly owned standalone captive.

Key Features and Benefits

- Quick formation and minimal start-up costs
- Less time and fewer meetings required from clients
- Accepts reinsurance or direct placement structures
- Enhanced management and control over losses
- Potential for sharing in underwriting profits
- Assets and liabilities of each cell are legally segregated
- A cell can easily be converted to a standalone captive
- Available for virtually any line of business, subject to business plan review

Structure Overview

- Policy is issued by an insurer
- Client signs participant contract defining its rights and obligations with respect to the cell
- Client posts collateral required to support the obligations of the cell
- Premiums and losses are ceded to the cell
- Regulatory and administrative tasks are carried out by AIG Captive Management Services

AIG is the marketing name for the worldwide property-casualty, life and retirement, and general insurance operations of American International Group, Inc. For additional information, please visit our website at www.aig.com. All products and services are written or provided by subsidiaries or affiliates of American International Group, Inc. Products or services may not be available in all countries and jurisdictions, and coverage is subject to underwriting requirements and actual policy language. Non-insurance products and services may be provided by independent third parties. Certain property-casualty coverages may be provided by a surplus lines insurer. Surplus lines insurers do not generally participate in state guaranty funds, and insureds are therefore not protected by such funds.
